Professional Experience

Titles: Professor (Clinical Track)
Hubert Department of Global Health
& Department of Epidemiology
Rollins School of Public Health
Emory University June 2014–Present

Senior TB Scientific Advisor, TB Division
Office of Infectious Diseases
Bureau for Global Health
U.S. Agency for International Development Nov 2014–Present

Major duties/accomplishments: During 2014-2019 I reported directly to Dr. Carlos Del Rio (former Chair), and since 2020 to Dr. Usha Ramakrishnan, Chair, Hubert Department of Global Health, where I have my primary faculty appointment. I also hold a joint appointed as Professor, Department of Epidemiology. In both Departments I serve as Faculty Advisor to graduate fellows (e.g., Hubert H. Humphrey Fellowship Program), and other students enrolled in the Master of Public Health (MPH), Executive MPH, and Doctoral (PhD) programs. In addition, I have lectured in the following graduate courses of the Rollins School of Public Health (specific course department number included in parenthesis): “Global Tuberculosis Update” (GH 500); “Tuberculosis, a Re-emerging Health Problem” (EPI 542/ GH 562); “Global Issues in Antimicrobial Resistance” (EPI 558/ GH558); “Emerging Infectious Diseases” (EPI 562/ GH 518); “Humphrey Fellowship Seminar” (GH 585H); and “Introduction to Public Health” for doctoral students (PUBH 700). I also facilitate discussions with students on real-life case-scenarios covered during the core curriculum course in Global Health Ethics (GH 501). I serve as subject-matter expert consultant on academic curriculum development of TB and HIV courses and academic research in these fields, and continue to serve as thesis advisor, mentor, and/or chair to students’ MPH and PhD dissertation committees. Other academic activities include serving in the Training Advisory Committee of Dr. Henry Blumberg’s grant from NIH-Fogarty International Center for Global Infectious Diseases Training Program in Ethiopia and the Republic of Georgia. In June 2014 I was selected as member, National Policy Advisory Group, Coalition for Applied Modeling for Prevention (CAMP) for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Grant # 1 1 NU38PS004650, and continue in this capacity. During June 2014-September 2022, I served as the designated Stop TB Partnership ex-officio member of the Technical Evaluation Reference Group (TERG), an independent evaluation advisory group, accountable to the Board of The Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis & Malaria for ensuring independent evaluation of the Global Fund business model, investments, and impact.

I am also the recipient of an Intergovernmental Personnel Act (IPA) Agreement award between Emory University and U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID). I report to Cheri Vincent, Chief, TB Division, in my appointment as Senior TB Scientific Advisor, TB Division, Office of Infectious Diseases, Bureau for Global Health, USAID. My responsibilities include contributing leadership and subject-matter expertise to the design and implementation of planned objective assessments and ongoing monitoring of the methodology and technical progress of USAID-sponsored TB prevalence surveys, TB transmission studies, laboratory diagnostic network assessments (including the detection of drug-resistant forms of TB), and clinical trials – to evaluate performance of infection control precautions and programs designed to diagnose people with TB and improve health outcomes with the use of optimal treatment regimens. Other areas of professional engagement include co-chairing USAID’s TB Contact Investigations Advisory Committee, contributing expert reviews to technical documents by the Stop TB Partnership, the WHO Global TB Programme, and special projects aimed at accelerating TB prevention and control in several host countries. These special projects have included: the introducing New Tools Project (iNTP) collaboration with Stop TB Partnership, the Quality of TB Care Assessments (QTCA), the development and implementation of guidance for USAID Country Missions to address TB in the context of COVID-19 pandemic, and the Airborne Infection Defense Platform (AIDP) to improve and enhance TB, COVID-19, and future airborne pandemic preparedness and responses. I have also provided technical support to USAID teams and missions addressing HIV-associated TB under the U.S. President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) Program in Angola and Botswana. I also offer technical leadership and support to ongoing implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of USAID TB Roadmaps in India and other selected priority countries. In July 2020 I was deployed to complete a six-week rotation as Deputy Lead, Technical and Implementation Support, Sustained Crisis Response Team (SCRT) for COVID-19. In September 2020 I served another six-week rotation as Incident Commander, SCRT for COVID-19 in the Bureau for Global Health, USAID.

Title: Adjunct Professor
Division of Infectious Diseases, Department of Medicine
Emory University School of Medicine Jan 2000–Present

Major Duties/accomplishments: Since January 2000, I have continuously held adjunct academic appointments with progressive promotions as Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, and now Professor of Medicine at Emory University School of Medicine. This adjunct academic appointment started while a career Medical Professional Officer in the U.S. Public Health Service Commissioned Corps, assigned to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In this role, I maintain licensure, competency, and proficiency in my professional specialty by providing clinical services to outpatients enrolled in the Grady Infectious Diseases Program. I also retain up-to-date hospital privileges at Grady Health System. Other duties have included the mentorship of, and invited lectures to, medical students, post-graduate interns, residents, and fellows in infectious diseases. Over the years I have lectured in various invited seminars sponsored by the Division of Infectious Diseases.

Title: Coordinator
Emory Hubert H. Humphrey Fellowship Program
Rollins School of Public Health
Emory University School of Medicine July 2021–Present

Major Duties/accomplishments: I was designated by Dr. Usha Ramakrishnan, Chair, Hubert Department of Global Health, Rollins School of Public Health, as Coordinator, Emory Humphrey Fellowship Program. In this capacity I provide technical leadership and oversight to this unique Fellowship Program award, sponsored by the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, under the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board and in cooperation with U.S. Embassies abroad. Emory University is one of 13 U.S. academic institutions hosting the Humphrey Fellowship Program. Our focus is to enhance leadership development and technical skills among international mid-career professionals to address a myriad of local and global public health challenges, foster professional networks and collaborations for our collective health and well-being. Other specific duties include mentorship of approximately 12 post-graduate nondegree-seeking public health professionals/year.

Title: Co-Director, Emory Tuberculosis (TB) Center
Rollins School of Public Health & School of Medicine
Emory University March 2020–Present

Major Duties/accomplishments: Together with Drs. Neel Gandhi and Jyothi Rengarajan, we launched the Emory TB Center in March 2020 (<https://tb.emory.edu/index.html>) to enhance TB-related basic biomedical, epidemiological, clinical, translational, and public health research, service and practice. The Emory TB Center fosters and maintains several established partnerships among professionals and affected communities in local departments of health, the metro-Atlanta community, other institutions in the state of Georgia, and other national and international partners in Brazil, Ethiopia, Republic of Georgia, India, Kenya, and South Africa. The Center enables a collaborative environment for successful research funding applications, give students and postdoctoral trainees exposure to interdisciplinary and practicum opportunities, engage with professionals in clinical and public health practice, and raise public awareness of TB, and related comorbidities, as a major global health problem in need of attention. The Emory TB Center facilitated the successful competition of the Emory-Georgia TB Research Advancement Center (TRAC) awarded in 2022 by the U.S. National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), National Institutes of Health (NIH).

Title: Assistant Surgeon General
Rear Admiral (O-7 rank/grade)
U.S. Public Health Service
Department of Health and Human Service May 2000–Oct 2014

Major duties/accomplishments: As a Flag Officer of the U.S. Public Health Service (PHS), I represented the top 1% leadership of the Commissioned Corps. In this capacity, I was called upon to provide the Surgeon General with advice in matters related to the Corps and PHS. I was continuously qualified to operate, and served, in promotion and retirement boards for Commissioned Corps Officers. I chaired the Scientist Chief Professional Officer Nomination Board, January 2005. I also provided a representational role for the USPHS and the Office of the Surgeon General.

Title: Commanding Flag Officer, CDC/ATSDR Commissioned Corps
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention/
Agency for Toxic Substances Disease Registry Sept 2008–Oct 2014

Major duties/accomplishments: As Commanding Flag Officer, CDC/ATSDR Commissioned Corps, I was the designated ranking Flag Officer charged with providing Agency oversight, mentorship, and guidance to nearly 900 Officers assigned to CDC/ATSDR. In this capacity, I reported directly to the Office of the Director, CDC/ATSDR, and coordinated with the Commissioned Corps

Personnel Office, CDC/ATSDR, the CDC and ATSDR representatives to the Surgeon General's Policy Advisory Council (SGPAC), other Flag Officers and Chief Professional Officers in the agency and served as liaison between HHS/CDC/ATSDR Director, Office of the Surgeon General (OSG), and Assistant Secretary for Health (ASH) on Commissioned Corps issues. I was responsible for ensuring that concerns of CDC/ATSDR Commissioned Corps Officers about significant policy issues were clear to the OSG, ASH, and Commissioned Corps leadership. I also ensured that leadership and policy decisions by ASH and OSG were promptly disseminated among Commissioned Corps Officers at CDC/ATSDR. As Commanding Flag Officer for the agency, I provided visibility and exemplified the core values of leadership, integrity, service, and excellence of the U.S. Public Health Service Commissioned Corps.

Title: Interim Director
Division of HIV/AIDS Prevention
National Center for HIV, Viral Hepatitis, STD, and TB Prevention
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Aug 2013–Aug 2014

Major duties/accomplishments: As Interim Director, Division of HIV/AIDS Prevention (DHAP), I oversaw an annual budget of approximately $700 million and provided leadership and technical expertise to nearly 700 of CDC's multidisciplinary professionals in the implementation of the DHAP Strategic Plan and National HIV/AIDS Strategy (NHAS) released by the White House July 13, 2010 and signed by President Obama. These various professionals collaborated with U.S.-based state and local health departments, academic institutions, professional organizations, and international partners to develop and implement relevant clinical and operational research, evidence-based guidelines, and monitor progress towards meeting the 2010 National HIV/AIDS Strategy aimed at reducing new HIV infections, increase access to care and improve health outcomes for people living with HIV, and reduce HIV-related health disparities. During my tenure as Interim Director, DHAP published updated guidelines for Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) of HIV, and new HIV testing algorithm that relied on updated laboratory methods to enable the detection of persons with early HIV infection. In 2014 we published the second DHAP Progress Report accounting for advances made – and identified unmet needs – in NHAS and our strategic plan. Other draft guidance was developed for clearance and included recommendations for Persons Living with HIV/AIDS, reliance on mathematical modeling to inform and prioritize the implementation of high-impact interventions, and the successful re-competition of Capacity-Building Assistance (CBA) Cooperative Agreements between CDC and state/local and territorial health departments, Community-Based Organizations (CBOs), and other key partners (e.g., HIV Medical Association of the Infectious Diseases Society of America and the HIV/AIDS Bureau, Health-Resources and Services Administration).

Title: Director, Division of Tuberculosis Elimination
National Center for HIV, Viral Hepatitis, STD, and TB Prevention
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Jan 1993–Dec 2013

Major duties/accomplishments: I provided scientific and medical leadership for national tuberculosis prevention and control program activities in the United States, with a budget of approximately $150 million and approximately 250 multidisciplinary professionals in Atlanta and other field assignments. Activities included strategic planning, scientific leadership and oversight, policy development, planning, coordinating, and implementing clinical and operational research. To accomplish program-relevant research activities, we sponsored two consortia that facilitated partnerships between the federal government (CDC), state and local health departments, and academic institutions: the TB Trials Consortium and TB Epidemiologic Studies Consortium. Based on the epidemiology of TB, and findings from research studies, I coordinated the development of national priorities for TB programs and formulation of evidence-based policies. A key function of CDC and the Division was to serve as the national TB program for the U.S. To accomplish this mission, I directed our Division's professional staff to work directly with state and local health departments in all states, territories, and selected large cities through 62 Cooperative Agreements, and in partnership with the National TB Controllers Association and Stop TB USA. Upon request, I also provided technical briefings and testimony to members of U.S. Congress and Senate. During my tenure, resources for TB programs were mobilized to enhance the identification, treatment, and cure of TB cases and the screening of high-risk populations for the provision of preventive therapy and launched an International Research and Programs Branch to address the global problem of tuberculosis. The global aspect of tuberculosis is directly reflected in the U.S. by a growing proportion of TB cases in people born outside the U.S. As a result of these combined activities, the incidence of TB cases steadily decreased over those 20 years -- following the unprecedented resurgence of tuberculosis in the United States from 1985 until 1992. Also, based on results of several epidemiologic investigations, I guided our professional staff to formulate evidence-based public health policy recommendations to prevent Mycobacterium tuberculosis transmission in health-care settings and airlines, to initiate clinical trials of new diagnostic methods and drugs for the prompt diagnosis and effective treatment of TB, and to revise and update recommendations for treatment of active TB, for targeted testing of high-risk populations, and for treatment of latent infection. Using two conservative scenarios and a mathematical model, we estimated that approximately 145,000-319,000 TB cases were averted during those two decades. The accompanying societal benefit of averted costs ranged from US$ 3.1 billion to US$ 6.7 billion excluding deaths, and from US$ 6.7 billion to US$ 14.5 billion, including deaths. Source: Int J TB Lung Dis 2016;20(7):926-933.

To address unmet needs in global TB, we initiated the Botswana-USA (BOTUSA) collaboration in 1995 to carry our program-relevant research in HIV-associated TB and used the findings to formulate updated evidence-based policies with the Botswana Ministry of Health and World Health Organization (WHO). We also planned and implemented interagency collaborations with USAID, WHO, and the International Union Against TB and Lung Diseases (IUATLD) to advance TB prevention and control, conduct surveillance and surveys to measure burden and extent of disease, and build public health and operational research capacity in several high priority countries. I also served as a founding member of the global Stop TB Partnership, its Coordinating and Executive Boards, and as technical advisor to the WHO Global TB Programme's Strategic and Technical Advisory Group.

Title: Co-Chair, Federal Tuberculosis Task Force
Department of Health and Human Services Summer 1995–Dec 2013

Major duties/accomplishments: I facilitated communication and coordination among the various federal agencies which play pivotal roles in U.S. TB elimination efforts. The Federal Tuberculosis Task Force was established by HHS in December 1991 in response to the resurgent tuberculosis in the nation, and in 1992 developed and published the National Action Plan to Combat Multidrug Resistant Tuberculosis, which guided the mobilization of new resources for responding to the TB crisis in the United States. I was appointed by CDC to Co-Chair this Task Force in 1995. Over the ensuing years, Co-Chair, Dr. Christine Sizemore, National Institute for Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), NIH, and I worked to facilitate periodic teleconferences of this Task Force to discuss and monitor progress. Following the May 2000 publication of the Institute of Medicine (IOM) report "Ending Neglect: the Elimination of Tuberculosis in the United States," we guided this Task Force to develop an action plan in response to recommendations issued in the IOM report. This joint effort was accomplished by co-convening face-to-face Task Force meetings at NIH facilities in Bethesda, Maryland, in December 2000 and February 2001, followed by the draft report (formally approved in August 2003 by Secretary of Health Tommy Thompson) and the September 2003 desktop publication of "Federal Task Force Plan in Response to the Institute of Medicine Report, Ending Neglect: the Elimination of Tuberculosis in the United States." The initial description of extensively drug resistant tuberculosis (XDR TB) prompted us to convene a meeting of the Task Force in 2007 to identify challenges and derive consensus for an updated plan to address the urgent problem of XDR TB. This plan was published in the Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report in 2009. Following those plans, we convened an annual meeting of the Federal TB Task Force to monitor progress and identify new areas deserving of interagency collaboration.

Title: Acting Incident Management Commander
2010 Haiti Earthquake Response
CDC Emergency Operations Center January 2010

Major duties/accomplishments: As Acting Incident Management Commander, I provided scientific leadership and administrative oversight for the evolving response to the catastrophic 2010 Haiti Earthquake during the two-week period when Incident Manager CAPT Scott Dowell was deployed to Haiti. I was responsible for oversight for daily activities in CDC's Emergency Operations Center, reviewed daily update briefings to the Director, CDC/ATSDR, and participated in teleconference calls with the Associate Secretary for Preparedness and Emergency Response, HHS, to coordinate actions between CDC, other parts of HHS, and Department of Defense. During this early phase of the response, we initiated post-recovery medium- and long-term planning for public health reconstruction in Haiti.

Title: Acting Chief Health Officer
2009 Pandemic Influenza A (H1N1) Response
CDC Emergency Operations Center April–May 2009

Major duties/accomplishments: As Acting Chief Health Officer, I provided technical leadership and oversight for evidence-based guidelines to address the rapidly evolving pandemic during the early phases, while Chief Health Officer RADM Anne Schuchat was deployed to Washington, DC, to provide Congressional testimony and face-to-face briefings with HHS Secretary, Office of Surgeon General, and other federal agencies.

With Incident Management Commander RADM Stephen Redd, I was part of the leadership team to coordinate CDC's response to the 2009 influenza A (H1N1) pandemic. I helped review and prepare daily briefings for CDC Director, Associate Secretary for Preparedness and Emergency Response, and the Secretary, HHS. We also contributed to the formation of a team to provide formal decision briefs to inform the formulation of evidence-informed recommendations for diagnostic testing of persons with influenza-like illness – relying on new laboratory methods approved under FDA's Emergency Use Authorization, for pharmaceutical mitigation (i.e., antiviral treatment recommendations), and for non-pharmaceutical mitigation (i.e., recommendations for mass gatherings at a time of graduation commencements) to prevent the propagation of 2009 Influenza A (H1N1).

Title: Chief Health Officer
2007 International Traveler with probable Extensively Drug Resistant TB
CDC Emergency Operations Center May–July 2007

Major duties/accomplishments: As Chief Health Officer, I provided technical leadership and oversight to track a passenger with culture-positive multidrug resistant (and probable extensively drug resistant) TB who traveled internationally in commercial aircraft. This incident resulted in the exposure of multiple other passengers to this very serious form of TB, and who needed to be contacted promptly to be evaluated for the possibility of recent TB infection. We implemented the principles contained in the International Health Regulations approved by the 2005 World Health Assembly/WHO, but not fully enacted. This work required frequent participation in secure/classified video-teleconferences with other key partners in Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and HHS. We successfully tracked the traveler and coordinated his medical evaluation and care in New York City, secured safe transport to his home state and subsequently to a specialty care setting. In addition, we directed an extensive international investigation of passenger contacts exposed to this patient during trans-Atlantic flights, to ensure their screening for TB. This response was coordinated in the midst of high media coverage and controversy. The high visibility of this response gave rise to Congressional briefings and testimony with colleagues from DHS. This incident also served to accelerate pending DHS policies for facilitated “do not board” actions to prevent the transmission of diseases of public health importance. In addition, results of this investigation were used by WHO to formulate and publish updated evidence-based guidelines in 2008 for the prevention of TB during commercial air travel.

Title: Special Assistant for HIV and TB,
Office of the Deputy Director (HIV)
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention May 1992–Dec 1992

Major duties/accomplishments: I was responsible for coordinating the planning and implementation of our agency's research in HIV and TB at a time when we were experiencing several outbreaks of multidrug-resistant TB cases affecting mostly persons who were also infected with HIV. This required a prompt response and mobilization of resources to assist health departments investigate and control these outbreaks. In coordination with other Federal health agencies, we developed the National Action Plan to Combat Multidrug Resistant Tuberculosis, published in 1992. This plan was used as the blueprint in our response to the unprecedented resurgence of TB and was recognized by the PHS Outstanding Unit Citation. I also coauthored a report describing the impact of both TB and HIV on duration and cost of hospitalization of patients in the United States.

Title: Consultant & Temporary Advisor
Health Situation and Trends Assessment
Pan American Health Organization July 1986–Dec 1992

Major duties/accomplishments: As a consultant to the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), I served as a technical advisor on the development and implementation of programs to research and respond to the growing HIV public health problem in Latin America. I provided technical assistance to colleagues in Mexico, Guatemala, Colombia, Peru, Chile, Ecuador, Argentina, Brazil, and Venezuela. I also contributed to the development of PAHO recommendations for the identification and management of HIV-associated opportunistic infections, first published in 1992; these have been used by clinicians throughout Latin America.

Title: Assistant Chief for Science,
Epidemiology Branch, Division of HIV/AIDS,
National Center for Infectious Diseases
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Sept 1990–May 1992

Major duties/accomplishments: As a senior medical epidemiologist, I was relied upon to help coordinate, implement, and investigate research activities aimed at understanding the routes of HIV transmission, and the occurrence of HIV-associated opportunistic infections (with emphasis on tuberculosis). I also coordinated and provided oversight to the revision of the classification system for HIV infection and the revision of the AIDS surveillance case definition. This revision was published in 1993 for use by clinicians and epidemiologists throughout the United States.

Title: Special Assistant to the Director for Science, AIDS Program,
National Center for Infectious Diseases,
Centers for Disease Control July 1989–Sept 1990

Major duties/accomplishments: I coordinated policy development, and the implementation of epidemiologic research by the various scientists in the Division of HIV/AIDS and started the review of data on HIV classification systems to obtain the scientific basis for a revision of this system. This work required coordination with researchers and scientists throughout the United States and other countries.

Title: Fellow, Division of Infectious Diseases
Emory University School of Medicine July 1988–June 1989

Major duties/accomplishments: I was responsible for providing clinical consultation and advice on the diagnosis and treatment of infectious diseases in hospitalized patients. During that academic year, I rotated through various hospitals, including Grady Memorial Hospital, Emory University Hospital, Crawford Long Memorial Hospital, and the Atlanta Veterans Administration Hospital. I also completed the clinical requirements for subspecialty Boards in Infectious Diseases and analyzed the occurrence of tuberculosis at Grady Memorial Hospital to describe a significant increase from 1982 until 1989, associated with increases in HIV infection. Results from these analyses were presented in 1990 at the International AIDS Conference and at the Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapeutics (ICAAC).

Title: Medical Epidemiologist, AIDS Program
Center for Infectious Diseases
Centers for Disease Control

July 1983–June 1989

Major duties/accomplishments: After completing two years of training in applied epidemiology in CDC's EIS program, I designed and implemented various studies to elucidate the routes of HIV transmission. I also analyzed AIDS surveillance information to study and describe the disproportionate excess of AIDS in racial and ethnic minorities. The epidemiologic studies included interviews of AIDS patients with no risk factors, a case-control study of AIDS in Haitian-Americans residing in Miami and New York, multiple investigations of unusual AIDS cases, and a community-based HIV survey in Belle-Glade, Florida. The findings of these various research activities were presented at national and international scientific meetings and published in peer-reviewed scientific journals. Additionally, the findings of these various studies provided the evidence basis for targeted recommendations to prevent the transmission of HIV infection.
