Summary of Professional Experience

Dr. Jean C. O'Connor is a collaborative, results-oriented leader with two decades of experience in health policy and management. She was most recently the CEO of a Federally-Qualified Community Health Center during COVID-19. Her prior experience includes senior roles in state public health, with CDC, and in a global non-profit working on emergency preparedness and response, chronic diseases, tobacco, HIV, and health systems strengthening. In these roles, she has written proposals for and overseen the successful award of more than $100 million dollars in cooperative agreement and grant-funded health improvement projects funded by HRSA, CDC, ACF, and CMS. She also has been teaching graduate health policy and management leaders at the Rollins School of Public Health at Emory since 2003 and the University of Georgia since 2017. Jean is on several non-profit boards, including Heluna Health, and is a past-president of the U.S. National Association of Chronic Disease Prevention Directors. She earned her Doctor of Public Health from UNC Chapel Hill and her Juris Doctor and Master of Public Health from Emory University. She is a fellow in the American College of Healthcare Executives and was named as a Fulbright Specialist in Global Health and Law in 2018.
